We're looking for a student assistant (m/f/d) to help us with livestreaming our conferences as well as video editing. You do not need any previous experience but should be interested in technology and ready to learn lots of new skills.

Our conferences will take place between May and October in Ingelheim, where you'll need to be on-site multiple days in a row. A driver's license for transporting the equipment would be desirable, but it's not mandatory and you also do not need to own a car. Since your work environment will be international you should be fluent in English.
